

Doheny Testimony in Oil Probe is Held Admissible

Government Scores Decisive Victory in First Big Test of Strength with "Million Dollar" Legal Defense of Fall and Doheny

HEAVILY CONTESTED BY COUNSEL IN CONSPIRACY TRIAL

Witnesses Three-Quarters of an Hour To Hand Down Lengthy Opinion: Goes Exhaustively into Every Phase of Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—The government scored a decisive victory today in its first big test of strength with the "million dollar" legal defense of ex-Secretary of the Interior, Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny, on trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the government out of naval stores.

Justice A. A. Hoehling, in a lengthy opinion read at the opening of the trial this morning, held that Doheny's testimony before the senate oil investigating committee three years ago concerning the $100,000 he "loaned" to Fall was admissible as evidence in the present trial.

Doheny testified before the senate committee that he had loaned Fall the $100,000, instead of E. R. McLean, the Washington and Cincinnati publisher, whom Fall had said loaned him the money.

Defense counsel bitterly contested the admissibility of this evidence before the jury that is now trying Fall and Doheny on criminal charges. They contended that it allowed Doheny's story to go before the jury constituted grounds for a reversible error when and if the case is appealed. Their argument was based on that part of the federal code which says that the testimony of a witness before a committee of congress shall not be used against him in a subsequent criminal proceeding.

Government counsel contended the statute did not cover this particular case, as Doheny had been a voluntary witness before the senate committee and had given the story to the committee by his own volition.

Justice Hoehling, who, since last Friday has been considering the question of Fall and Doheny's testimony, admitted that the government placed before the jury conflicting statements by the two defendants and at the same time laid the foundation for its case.

JOLLY ST. NICK NOW ON WAY TO MARION

FARMER'S WIFE AND DAUGHTER CRASH VICTIMS

Automobile Backs Onto Tracks in Path of Interurban Car

Bugrus, Nov. 29.—Two members of a New Washington family, Mrs. Fred J. Shafer, 45, and her daughter, Fern, 18, were victims of a traction line crash today at the intersection of the North Robinson and Union-Highways, four miles east of here yesterday afternoon.

The daughter was instantly killed. The mother died before she could be removed from the scene of the accident.

The father and husband, Fred J. Shafer, farmer and stockman, who was driving, and another daughter, Fern, 12, were thrown clear of the wreckage when the Shafer car, a Ford sedan, was struck by a southbound interurban on the Cleveland Southwestern line. They escaped with minor injuries.

Decision to return home by a different route was given to the family by the accident. Shafer stated that his wife had suggested that they go through Bugrus to further enjoy the beauty of the late fall afternoon after he had turned onto the North Robinson road.

Complimenting her with her wife, he said the North Robinson intersection during the day was the path of the traction car. He was not aware of its approach.

Carried 50 Feet

The bodies of the mother and daughter were held in the wreckage of the car which was carried for a distance of 50 feet. Mrs. Shafer was still breathing when her husband reached her side and died in his arms. Her

UNFAVORABLE WEATHER MAY HALT STREET WORK

Improvement of Oak Grove-Avenue Will Probably Be Postponed Until Spring

Unfavorable weather conditions may prevent completion of one of the paving projects included in this year's street improvement program here. It was stated today at the city offices.

The original plan was to finish all work before Jan. 1, but there is now probability that it will be necessary to leave the Oak Grove-Avenue paving in its present partially completed state until the arrival of more suitable weather.

This paving is to be of concrete construction and laying of concrete can not be done safely at this season of the year, city officials say.

Should the Oak Grove-Avenue work be held up, it will be the only paving in the 1926 list remaining incomplete. The recently finished area of concrete, was recently finished after several weeks of delay due to the weather. A section of brick surfacing remains to be laid on E. Church-st, one of the largest improvement projects of the year, and it is estimated that only five or six days will be necessary for the contractors to do this work.

PEACHES' WINS INITIAL SKIPIER IN HER SUIT

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 29.—"Peaches" Browning won the first skirmish in her suit for separation from her millionaire husband, Edward West Browning, today, when Justice Morchatter denied the motion of Browning's attorneys for a bill of particulars giving the exact time and place of the alleged acts contained in the complaint.

Justice Morchatter ruled, however, that if the child bride sprang any surprises at the trial, Browning would be permitted an adjournment to prepare his defense.

Santa Claus Enroute to Marion From North Pole; Will Arrive in City Dec. 7

Message to Star States Jolly, Bewhiskered Old Fellow Expects To Travel Through Alaska Tonight and Enter Trackless Wastes of Canada

A message was received by The Star today, saying that he expected to pass through Alaska tonight and enter Canada. Santa Claus said he is a long ways off, but he is traveling steadily and will be in the United States before many days pass. Santa said that everything was due with him and his party.

The reindeer are making wonderful speed over the frozen snow fields, and Mr. and Mrs. Taurah, the Eskimos, and their son, Nootch, who is traveling with them, are all looking forward to arrive in Marion soon.

To Head Parade

Santa Claus will pass through Marion on Dec. 7. He will be here all day and will head a huge parade that will pass through the streets during the day.

His reindeer will also take his reindeer and his Eskimo helpers to a big community celebration that will be held at night, just before he leaves Marion for the north.

Besides the reindeer and the Eskimo, Santa Claus is bringing the Brownies, who help him make his toys, the North Wind, who speaks him on his way, the old woman who lives in a shoe and who is a great friend of Mrs. Santa Claus, and Mother Hubbard, and last of all Jack Frost, one of the best helpers Santa has.

School children will play a big part in the welcoming of Santa Claus, for the city schools will be let out so that the children may have a chance to take part in the big parade and visit with Santa Claus.

An invitation is also being extended to the schools of Marion County to come to the city the afternoon of Dec. 7, to see Santa Claus. The Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring this visit, has asked the county school board to take part in the big event.

Every day from now on until he is seen, Santa Claus will send a message to The Star, telling where he is and how he is expecting to get a round welcome when he drives into Marion.

Clear and colder is forecast for Tuesday

Drop in Temperature Will Be Very Slight, Weatherman Predicts

Rain that was general throughout central Ohio today will clear away tonight and it will be clear and colder tonight and Tuesday. The drop in temperature will be very slight.

Yesterday was warmer than was generally looked for, and was considerably warmer than a year ago. The temperature a year ago today dropped to 21 degrees high and went as low as 22 degrees. Yesterday the mercury was high at 32 degrees and low at 17 degrees, a variation of only five degrees.

The skies in this section may not clear until late tonight, the forecast said, as there is considerable rain in the offing.

WILBUR SUED BY RETIRED ADMIRAL

Fake Charges Alleged Infringement of Patent on Torpedo Delivery

Washington, Nov. 29.—Suit for $250,000 damages against Secretary of the Navy Wilbur was filed today by Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, U. S. N., retired, for alleged infringement of his patent on a "method and apparatus for delivery of submarine torpedoes from ships."

News of Wilbur in the suit were given by Rear Admiral Charles B. McVay, Jr., William A. Moffett and Claude C. Bloop.

Fiske declared he perfected what is now known as the "torpedo-plane" and that the navy appropriated it, despite patent rights issued to him in 1912.

Thieves Strip Car Then Abandon It

Thieves who stole a Ford touring car from the city lot at Church and Prospect-sts. Saturday night, were generous enough to see that at least a part of the machine was returned to its owner, Frank E. Bengert of Waldo. The car, a 1921 model, was driven to South-st, where police found it late Saturday night with one wheel gone and tires and rims missing from the other three wheels.

PRINCE CAROL WANTS THRONE IF FATHER DIES

Roumanian Who Renounced Rights Awaits Queen's Arrival in Paris

Paris, Nov. 29.—Prince Carol wants to accede to the throne of Roumania, if King Ferdinand dies, but he will not return to his homeland as a pretender.

"I left Roumania by the front door and I won't return except by the front door," Prince Carol told a friend, who questioned him regarding his possible renunciation and restoration.

The prince's supporters intend to ask the Roumanian parliament to appoint the constitution and cancel his renunciation of rights. It was stated authoritatively today by a member of his household, failing in this, the supporters of Prince Carol may resort to a coup d'etat or a popular revolution to bring about his return, it was stated.

Has Two Alternatives

"The highness has the greatest desire to see King Ferdinand, but he is forbidden by the Roumanian constitution to become king since he has renounced his rights," said a member of Prince Carol's household at Nervi.

There are two alternatives. The first is to ask the parliament to reverse the constitution to permit him to accede to the throne. His highness has little hope of success in this direction, since the parliament is dominated by the Roumanian king and several Roumanian princes, who are opposed to the return of Prince Carol and who will take all measures to keep him away.

The second alternative is that Prince Carol will succeed to the throne either by a coup d'etat or a popular revolution that will put him in power. The prince is exceedingly democratic and has views favor liberal policies.

A popular revolution for his restoration would not necessarily mean a return to power for the people, since the prince's desire for Prince Carol, it is probable that the government would be forced to accede.

Awaits Mother's Return

Prince Carol, it is learned, is taking no action until he has conferred with his mother, Queen Marie.

FATHER, SONS DIE IN TENEMENT HOUSE FIRE

Man Loses Life While Saving Wife and Three Other Children

New York, Nov. 29.—Samuel Weiner, 55, and his sons, Hyman, 10, and David, 7, were burned to death in a fire which swept a tenement early today.

Mrs. Mary Gelfand, 10, sprained her wrist when she jumped from a window, and Michael Weiner, 41, was burned severely.

The fire was accompanied by a gas explosion and officials began an investigation of its origin.

Weiner died saving his wife and three of his children. They, with 75 other tenants, escaped on ladders and over the roofs.

YOUTHFUL BANDITS HOLD UP THEATER PROPRIETOR

Cincinnati, Nov. 29.—Police today were looking for three youthful bandits who held up Max Schwartz, theater proprietor, and his two daughters, Sarah and Ethel, late last night. The bandits escaped with more than $1,000, the property of a Sunday night show, which Schwartz was carrying, police said.

Mrs. Hall Denies She Took Part in Husband's Murder

Black Garbed Defendant Declares She Even Knew Nothing of Love Letters Exchanged Between Reverend Hall and Mrs. Mills

DEATHLIKE SILENCE PERVADES COURTROOM

Widow Asserts She Does Not, Even Now, Believe Mate and Choir Singer Were in Love When They Were Slain Four Years Ago

COURTHOUSE, Somerville, N. J., Nov. 29.—Under a blistering cross-examination by Prosecutor Alexander Simpson, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall today calmly, almost disdainfully, denied that she took "any part whatever" in the murder of her husband, Rev. Edward W. Hall, and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills.

The black garbed defendant, ashen pale, denied she knew anything about the love letters that were found scattered about the bodies.

She denied she knew anything of any love letters exchanged between her husband and Mrs. Mills.

Simpson had shown her the letters, he said.

A deathlike silence pervaded the crowded courtroom as Simpson asked her point blank if she was at the scene of the crime on the night of the murder.

"I was not."

"Were you in De Russes's lane that night?"

"No."

"You never saw those letters?"

"No."

Didn't Go to Lane

"You didn't start out to De Russes's lane Thursday night with those letters?"

"No."

"You didn't go to the lane and see your husband killed before your eyes?"

"I did not."

"How long would it take you to get from your home to De Russes's lane?"

"I don't know."

"Did you return to De Russes's lane late that night and cry over your husband's body?"

"I did not go quietly and finally. This line of questioning came shortly after noon, after Mrs. Hall had been on the stand since 10:15 a. m.

Mrs. Hall seemed to be weary, utterly and I won't return except by the front door," Prince Carol told a friend, who questioned him regarding his possible renunciation and restoration.

The prince's supporters intend to ask the Roumanian parliament to appoint the constitution and cancel his renunciation of rights. It was stated authoritatively today by a member of his household, failing in this, the supporters of Prince Carol may resort to a coup d'etat or a popular revolution to bring about his return, it was stated.

SOLONS GATHER AROUND TABLE OF PRESIDENT

Coolidge Gives Breakfast at White House for Harmony Purposes

Washington, Nov. 29.—President Coolidge gave a "harmony breakfast" this morning at the White House, attended by a dozen members of the senate.

Included among the guests was Senator Hendrik Shipstead, the sole farmer-labor member, of Minnesota, whose vote in the twentieth senate may consequently decide whether the Republicans or Democrats will control the chamber.

The obvious chief purpose of the gathering about the White House breakfast table was to afford the executive an opportunity to discuss with the republican leaders of the senate the legislative program for the short session, beginning next Monday. Actually it was regarded as another administration step toward the elimination of sectionalism and the establishment of party harmony against the time in the twentieth senate when republican harmony will be largely needed.

Causes Comment

Shipstead's inclusion among the breakfast guests caused considerable comment in political quarters. It was said to be the first time the farmer-laborer has ever sat at the White House table. Recently he was "invited" by republican leaders of the senate, informally, to become affiliated with the republican party.

Others at the table this morning included: Curtis, of Kansas; the Republican leader; Capper, of Kansas; Hale, of Vermont; Bingham, of Connecticut; Goff, of West Virginia; Montford, of California; Gooding, of Idaho; Cawley, of Washington; Skeels, of Kentucky; and Stewart, of Iowa, who is to occupy the seat of the late Senator Cummings for the short session.

Senator Cawley's presence also attracted some comment, as he frequently has been on the "outs" with the administration and has fought some engagements with the secretary of the Treasury, Mellon.

He has been irregular enough to be placed on some important committees.

DAYTON JURORS WILL BE TAKEN TO MURDER SCENE

Dayton, Nov. 29.—Jurors in the case of Albert H. Hill, 40, charged with first degree murder for the alleged slaying of his six-year-old son, Roy, 14, on June 27, this morning will be taken to the scene of the crime for a view of the premises, after they have selected their foreman.

The trial will be resumed this morning before Judge Alfred McGray, after a recess since last Tuesday, when the last of the 12 jurors selected to hear the case was chosen and an adjournment ordered because of Thanksgiving recess.

FOREIGN LOAN POLICY HIT BY CONGRESSMAN

Declares It Will React Against American Business and Create Entanglements

Washington, Nov. 29.—Sharp criticism of the state department's foreign loan policy, Representative Henry T. Burton, Democrat of Illinois, today opened what appears to be a series of attacks on the policy of American money to Europe for investment.

These foreign loans will react against American business and bring new foreign entanglements, supporters of the movement declare.

"The state department's policy of passing on foreign loans," Burton asserted, "constitutes an implied guarantee to American investors that their loans will be protected."

Tells of Bond Issue
"The administration party has a well-known policy against entanglements with foreign nations, but it is encouraging a foreign investment policy which makes such entanglements inevitable in the next decade," said Burton. "A few days ago a $10,000,000 bond issue secured by first mortgages on an industrial plant in north Italy, was sold within one day in New York. The bonds carry a privilege of stock purchase. The company is to make a low-priced automobile."

"Italy has no restriction on hours of labor. The workers can't strike. Every automobile manufactured in this plant will displace an American-made machine in European markets."

"In the next 10 years, such American investments in industry in Europe as this I have mentioned will have the effect of seriously curtailing our own exports and therefore seriously effect American business."

Representative Cyrus Cole, Republican of Iowa, a member of the house foreign affairs committee, declared that if loans are not halted, the United States will soon have a "blanket mortgage on Europe."

The trouble with that town of New Brunswick over in New Jersey seems to be that it hasn't more "Crazy Willies."

Since they rot away safely, it may be all right, but it is hardly proper to run inexperienced fighters like the army and navy boys up against the hazards of Chicago.

Confidence men unloaded twenty-five pieces of glass off onto a Cincinnati shop-keeper for $5,000, one day last week. And yet one sees references to the "innocents" of village life.

What a shock it's going to be to that Iowa pupil of seventy when he learns to read and picks up for the first time one of the "popular" magazines of today!

The Florida tornado may have swept much away, but a recent dry-law-enforcement incident plainly demonstrated that not all of her liquid refreshment was lost in the storm.

A Buckeye paper tells us that an American firm has received a rush order from Scotland for 5,000 small savings banks. We never imagined there were that many foreigners in all Scotland.

It may be just as well that the southern governor arrested at a fishing camp which proved to be something of an oasis was not the chief executive of either North or South Carolina. We've had enough revivals of that old one, as it is.

Before patronizing the German air lines which propose to serve liquor aboard, the prudent traveler will want to know whether the pilot, as well as the passengers, is to be served.

Sometimes we are inclined to wonder if it isn't possible that many comparisons made between the young people of today and those of decades past to the disadvantage of the former are largely due to defective memories.

A lot of these alarmists are predicting that the world is soon going to be overpopulated, but we true aristocrats realize as do no others the utter futility of such talk.

Having written along that line, it's a bit gratifying to note that the Saturday Evening Post also inclines to the view that a revival of the Vigilantes is what this country needs for what's ailing it.

A Hagerstown, Maryland, story tells about the butchering by a farmer living near there of a hog eight feet and two inches long, with a girth of eight feet and five inches, weighing 1,350 pounds. Isn't it just possible that a hippopotamus escaped from some traveling menagerie and was slaughtered under a misapprehension?

Paris Trip of the Legion.

The trip of the American legionnaires to France next September has been further simplified by an arrangement whereby the use of American legion identification certificates will be substituted for passports and visas, thus eliminating both the trouble and $20 expense incurred in securing the two.

Arrangements have progressed to such a point that definite figures on the cost and plans of the trip are now obtainable. To carry the 30,000 legionnaires for whom housing arrangements in Paris have been made, thirty-two liners have been chartered from the United States, Cunard, White Star, French, Royal Mail, Holland-American and Canadian Pacific lines. In addition to this, the Martha Washington, of the Caspian line, will carry the veterans of the Massachusetts department of the legion, which plans a somewhat more elaborate trip than that provided by the general program. The Massachusetts legionnaires will visit Gibraltar, Algiers, Naples, Messina, Regensburg and Trieste and from Trieste go to Venice by rail, thence by way of Lucerne to Paris, where they will arrive September 15, the day before the opening of the convention.

The ocean trip, both ways, will cost from $145 to $270, according to the location of staterooms. Housing in Paris, including a room for seven nights and tips will cost from $10 to $19. Bart-field and cemetery trips will range from five dollars to $16.50 according to the variety of vehicle employed, the fare on which as well as on all railroads which are to be traveled over having been reduced. By accepting the cheapest accommodations, the cost of the entire trip from New York back to New York, including meals in Paris will be $175. This is the minimum, but the average cost will be about $300.

Some of the members of the local post have asked that any information coming to the Star on the trip might be published, hence the foregoing. But here's a tip which may well be followed by all who go upon the trip. Arrange for the class of accommodations desired, and then take along in addition an amount equal to at least fifty per cent. of the estimated cost, or, better still, 100 per cent. additional. In that way lies safety and a guarantee against embarrassment, for there are always extras and matters unforeseen.

Some Matters Not in Controversy.

In the discussion of the new ward lines there have been so many repetitions by supporters of them of the statement that the future growth of the city will be chiefly in the fifth and sixth wards that one unacquainted with the situation might assume that this is a matter in dispute. The statement has been uttered so frequently both by word of mouth and in print that we confess our inability to determine to our own satisfaction what the purpose of its reiteration may be.

We have yet to hear question of the statement. We believe that it is generally conceded that the chief future growth of the city within the present city limits will be in these two new wards. More than that, we believe that the general feeling among our citizenship is that the chief growth of the city outside the present city limits may naturally be expected to the southwest, the south and in that territory to the east of the city south of the east-and-west railroad lines. We believe all this is conceded, and yet the statement is being repeated day after day, by those supporting the new ward arrangement. In other words, it appears a bit like putting up a straw man to knock it down.

As we have stated, this paper is not committed to any particular division. Any fair division is perfectly acceptable to us, but we feel that division should be along such lines as to make the new wards localities and not mere combinations of lines, turns and twists producing wards of crazy-quilt design.

If the statement that the chief growth of the city within the present corporation limits is to be in the fifth and sixth wards is well based, as we believe it to be, the natural tendency in growth being to the east, south and southwest, then it seems to us that the lines of these two wards should be so run as to bring them near a parity in the matter of population for the next fourteen years. And if the growth continues in these directions after fourteen years, as may be anticipated if it continues to the east, south and southwest for the next fourteen, the dividing line between the fifth and sixth wards should be so run as to maintain the parity after new territory is added to these wards or in new wards formed to the south of them.

On the other hand we are not impressed by the statement that a resident of the sixth ward can not drive from one part of it to another without going outside the ward lines. That is not so much the fault of the ward lines as of the divisions of it. If those who live in the sixth ward object to crossing the street because by so doing they get outside of their ward, it is up to the reality owners of the ward to run more streets and alleys through it.

The most glaring defect in the new ward arrangement is the marked irregularity of its lines such as the little dipper arrangement extending south from Gurley avenue to Washington street and west from Vine street to Delaware avenue. Assuming that this line was not run for a purely political purpose—to prevent the legislating of a Republican councilman out of a solidly Republican ward, the Fourth, into one which may not be safely Republican, the Fifth—there is a rather general suspicion that such was its purpose, and the city council, like Caesar's wife, should be above suspicion. There is a very general feeling that such was the purpose of running the line as it was run, and we are frank to say that we are unable to see any other ground for this course taken. But even if the public is wrong in its feeling, it is not good policy or good politics, for that matter, so to run ward lines that such a feeling can arise and exist.

It would be interesting to know the per capita cost of the senatorial campaigns of some of these senators who are simply boiling over in indignation as a result of the cost of the Vane and Smith campaigns.

There's no getting away from the fact that that Pittsburgher chose the psychological time for discovering how to produce liquid coal. People will drink anything nowadays.

Vagrant Verse.

A RICE FOR JOY.

I saw him sitting in his door

Trembling as old men do.

His home was old, his hair was old,

And yet his eyes seemed new.

His eyes had seen three times my years

Though they had looked at birth and death

And three graves on a hill.

I will sit down with you, I said,

And let a tearful old man weep

Tell me how you have kept the stars

Still burning in your eyes.

Then like an old-time orator

Impossibly he rose.

I make the most of all that you say

And the best of all that you do.

The singing rhythm of his words

Echoed as old songs do.

Yet that had been his own, and I

I'll be sure to say so.

THE PUBLIC: "IT'S FUNNY HOW THE BIG FELLERS ALWAYS GET A WAY."

Red Blood Connotes Success.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Everybody should live such a life that his blood is red, that it never becomes impoverished. This means that he must eat good food and take lots of exercise. He must breathe the fresh air and lots of exercise. He must breathe the fresh air and have enough sleep so that morning comes with renewal of vigor and strength.

If you have ever looked into the matter, you will be amazed how many red corpuscles there are in the blood. The scientists tell us that in a cubic millimeter of blood there are 5,000,000 red corpuscles. It takes twenty-five millimeters to make an inch, so you can see that a cubic millimeter represents a very small space. Yet, such a space is capable of containing 5,000,000 red corpuscles. In a single drop of blood there are 150,000,000 of these little bodies.

You might have lots of red blood cells, and yet not have red blood. The color of the blood depends upon the hemoglobin in the blood. This is the oxygen-carrying material. The chief job of the red blood cells is to carry the oxygen which is breathed in through the lungs to other parts of the body. In some way which we do not thoroughly understand the oxygen combines with the hemoglobin. The amount of oxygen which can be carried by one red corpuscle depends upon the hemoglobin that corpuscle possesses.

We would not be well and strong, we would be impoverished unless the food we take is oxidized by the blood. It is essential for us to have an abundance of hemoglobin and red blood cells in our body that our food may carry the oxygen which we must have to make the food valuable.

Malaria, anemia, blood poisoning and other disturbances have a profound effect upon the body and there is a decline in the number of red blood cells. Poisoning with arsenic, phosphorus, nitrates, drugs and other drugs may cause multitudes of red blood cells to die. A bad burn has this effect upon the blood.

The feeding of the individual has a decided effect upon the number and quality of the red blood cells. Undernourishment and improper feeding will cause the cells to die.

Unless you have plenty of red blood you are bound to fail in life. A large part of what we call personal magnetism is due to the presence of red cells in the blood.

There is no doubt that the manner of life which produces the number of red cells and the quantity of hemoglobin in the blood has much to do with the success of the individual.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A hundred boys a year, on the average—come to Edward Gray, of New York, with their work papers. Gray is secretary of the Wall Street boys' branch of the Y. M. C. A. His problem is adjustment. He tries to find a place on the team of life into which every boy will fit.

Is it not the great problem of all of us—adjustment? The capacity for adjustment is one of the outstanding qualities of the successful man or woman. If you can not have what you want, you can adjust yourself to what you have, and still win in life a competition.

When John P. Rockefeller, Jr., a leading Baptist, gave $50,000 to fourth charities in New York, he served notice on other really big men have served notice that the kind he knows no creed but to help. We make the mistake of dividing some of our graveyards into denominational lines. We shouldn't make the same mistake without charities.

Don't think the world is going wrong. There are hopeful signs. Jesse Lasky, great capitalist of the moving pictures, says humor has replaced love and problem plays in popularity on the screen. With the love of humor is a growing interest in clean action pictures of adventure. Mr. Lasky says:

A canvas of public tastes and desires in seventy-two countries, and a check of the various pictures released last year indicate also that the film public has distinct liking for stories unfolding interesting details of human activities, such as those revolving about the lumber industry, the forest ranger service, the lumberman, the merchant marine, the automobile business and similar lines with colorful backgrounds.

Dean Inge of St. Paul's cathedral, London, says it's time we came to understand that man is worth what he is and not what he has. Adoption of that principle would reduce a lot of so-called rich men to bankruptcy.

Harold McCormick's son is another young man born to great riches who wants to know something about the business he will inherit. He has been working in the shops of the International Harvester company. To do this is more than a gesture to make himself popular. He knows that in this day of sharpened competition the man who knows most about every detail of his own business is coming out in front. Nothing will give you so much confidence on the road to victory as to "know your business."

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS.

Seems to me like kids don't mind going to school as much as they used to. Something or other has been done to the schools. Maybe it's only the teachers that have got their hair cut and put on more snappy clothes than they used to wear twenty years ago or more, but it used to be taken for granted that a kid wouldn't go to school unless he had to. Now they generally go without making much of a fuss.

But I was told about a kid in Cincinnati that was running around the streets on a school day, and the man that ran the lollipop stand says to him:

"Why ain't you in school, George?"

"I've quit school."

"That so? You're quitting early, ain't you?"

"Yep. I hated to quit, but our teacher went crazy, and I couldn't do nothing else but quit."

"Oh, you went crazy did you?"

"Yep, plum mad and wild and crazy as a nut. I saw they wasn't no use going back to school any more. Last week she told us that three and three was six, and then this week she started in telling us that four and two was six, and before the day was over she changed her tune and said that five and one was six. Kid you beat that for a nut?"—Copyright, 1926.

BUICK SEDAN IS PURCHASED FOR POLICE SERVICE

New Car, Capable of Speed of 70 Miles a Hour, Costs $1,600

A Buick "Master Six" sedan, fully equipped with all special equipment necessary for police service and capable of attaining a speed of 70 miles an hour, was purchased by the City Board of Control for the Marion Police Department, Saturday, after several days had been spent in considering bids submitted on various makes of cars by local dealers.

The purchase was made as the result of council having authorized it in the adoption of a resolution several weeks ago. Council limited the price to $1,600, and the bid of the Marion Buick Co. on the Master Six was $200 below that figure. Delivery of the car is expected within the next few days and it will be placed in service at once.

Old Cars For Sale
The old Chrysler and Cadillac machines which have been used by the police for several years will be advertised for sale Saturday Director W. H. Strayer stated today. At the time Council authorized purchase of a new machine there was some dispute over the matter and Councilman John L. Owens voted against buying a new car, maintaining that the two then in use should be repaired. Other city officials declared that both the Cadillac and Chrysler were not fit for police use and that repairs would not place them in proper condition and it was on the basis of this information that council authorized purchase of the new machine.

The Chrysler was obtained by the police by confiscation in the arrest of a city law violator and the Cadillac was bought after it had been driven about 50,000 miles by the former owners.

Bids On Autos
Other bids on the new police car, in addition to that of the Marion Buick Co., were from the Marion-Overland Co., Willys-Knight; Guy C. Stoltz, Dodge; George Motor Co., Studebaker; Mrs. Mary H. Hays, on a used Cadillac; Frank L. Warrick, Auburn; Lott & McKinnon, Hudson; E. C. Walters, Ford; Hane-Nash Sales Co., Nash.

The purchase was made by Mayor Earl M. Hazen, Safety Director W. H. Strayer and Service Director O. A. Benedict, who constitute the City Board of Control.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN
While he knew that constipation was the cause of nearly all children's little ills he did not believe that a sickening "purge" or "physic" was necessary.

In Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin he discovered a laxative which helps to establish natural bowel "regularity," even if the child is chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only becomes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it never grips, sickens or upsets the most delicate.

CHAPTER IX
Still a Native

He quivered down in a few days, and the newspapers had dropped for winter sports and didn't mention any more. It happened only three seniors on next team, a substitute half-back, a center, none of whom distinguished themselves very. They withdrew in my favor and I found myself captain of the team with a flourish.

Instead of supporting myself before me, but even this was not by my prominence. A disreputable old man who ran a big real estate office in Boston offered to pay me five dollars per week to appear at parties and dinners, and I found this work not as difficult as I had thought.

Then, one day, we met. I had been in the dory and brought in a string of fish. I was ragged overalls and my hat and my feet were bare. I had just made the boat fast and stepped ashore when the girl came out of a queer little shack where postal cards were sold, and confronted me.

All that three years has done to her was to make her more beautiful and proud. She wore a white dress, and a wide white band hanging in her hair. She seemed a true more womanly figure, though she was still lithe and graceful as a swan. She looked at me and she smiled a friendly, condescending smile.

"I do believe," she exclaimed, "it is my gallant young Cape Cod rescuer of long ago. Where have you been all these years, and are the fish biting well?"

Here was a meeting toward which I had been building for three years. I had been waiting for her. I should say to her and what she would say to me. She would be tremendously impressed, even a trifle timid in front of the magnificent creature that I had become, and I would be kind and comforting. Perhaps I might confide that I had done it all for her.

Instead of which, she had rolled back three years; she was still the lady of the manor and I the lowly mental. She looked down on me, condescending and kind, a trifle amused at finding me exactly what I had been the day I pulled her into my boat. I was a poor, shiftless native who had once done her a service and was to be treated with a courtesy of the most imperious sort.

There didn't seem to be a darn thing I could say. I shuffled, conscious of my bare feet. I blushed, but it was invisible because of my sunburn. With an outfit from the best tailor in Boston in my trunk, she had caught me looking like a Portuguese fisherman who had worked all day to bring in a couple of dollars worth of bluelish.

Of course I wanted to throw back my shoulders, look her firmly in the eye and say:

"Are you aware that you are trying to patronize William Allen, captain of the Harvard football team, All-American, and the man who won the Yale game last fall? But these achievements somehow seemed of no consequence in the face of the contemptuous amusement which looked from her dark eyes. And of course I couldn't have told her any more."

"Yes, the boy who pulled me out of the water, aren't you?" she asked, surprised by my silence.

"Yes, Miss Abbott," was all I said. "My father was very anxious to see you at the time," she continued, "but they told him you had gone on a long fishing cruise, or something. If you are going to be around this summer, I might let you take me out fishing sometime."

"Yes, Miss Abbott."

"If I remember correctly you were quite rude to me that day. I hope your manners have improved with age."

I grew hot where my collar would have been if I had worn one.

"Perhaps you had better get some polite fisherman to take you out," I muttered.

"I see you haven't," she said with a mocking smile. "If you have a polite fisherman, send him to see me. With this she strode up to the village, leaving me fuming on the shore. If I could have bitten off my tongue in time to keep the hot answer down I would have done so. What a fool I had been. I might have agreed to take her fishing. When she got better acquainted with me I might drop him and take which would put her on the track of who I really was. Instead I had angered her."

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years an Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babbie Girl—and is doing so for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Bradley's Drug Store, Hennessey & Co. or any drug store.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 6 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market, she is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Insist on McCoy's, the original and genuine, and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why get your money back—Ad.

And this was the meeting for which I had striven so long. Today we were right where we had been three years before and my chances of tracing her favorable attention had gone glimmering.

On my way home I thought of many things which I might have said. Why did my tongue persist in being gruff with a girl to whom my heart wished to speak softly? Three could come to me as that old Irish character expected his sweetheart to be assigned to him. I had forgotten that he was elected after his seven years of labor and offered an ugly sister. Cold sliced meat, often makes a pleasant change. Slice it thin and arrange on platter with celery leaves or parsley garnish. Serve a relish or pickles with it. Creamed potatoes are always nice to serve with cold meat, but in this instance, when you are baking the corn in the oven you might as well have baked potatoes, either sweet or Irish, or scalloped potatoes.

Quicksands of Love

BY ABLE HARRISON

FIRST AID TO MADGE

MY childhood little maid, Katie, shared her destiny with my mother, unless, about the only thing they hold in common. They both believed that true things will result if one steps out of one's home and into the world.

Therefore, I was not surprised at the disappointed face she presented to me when she found that I was busied upon eating and drinking only a light breakfast before I left for my drive and luncheon with Hugh Grantland.

I had dressed swiftly while she prepared my coffee and grapefruit juice, and when I sat down to discuss it, she renewed her lament.

"You no talk so, but you see you get mighty hungry," she repeated, dutifully.

"Where's the funeral?" Katherine demanded gaily from the door, and Junior made a flying leap for me. A glance at my wrist watch told me that it was later than I had thought, and that my little kinswoman's return with my young son from the museum school which he was proudly attending for the first time was not premature as I had thought when I first caught sight of them.

Junior was hugging me so tightly that I could not answer her, but Katie was voluble.

Junior Wants To Join Party

"Misses Bickett, you please tell her something," she pleaded. "She no eat only teeny breakfast 'cause she also got out ear louse. But she drive first and I let her need her breakfast."

Junior loosened his arms, springing down from my lap and began to jump up and down excitedly.

"Oh, where you going, Mama?" he queried. "See, you've got your pretty dress and hat on. Oh, may I go too?"

To my intense irritation I felt myself flushing, and was conscious that Katherine's eyes were dancing with amusement.

"You know better than to ask that at this time," I told my son gravely. "You know Auntie Katherine when you take a nap every day after lunch, so you couldn't possibly go with me now. But I'll take you for a drive some day soon."

"Honor bright!" he asked with the little formula that he always used.

"Honor bright," I returned, smiling. "And now, if you'll go into the living room you'll see somebody you like and who hasn't been here for a long time."

"Who?" he demanded.

"Go and find out," I returned, unwillingly, and he walked rather slowly to the door and opened it. "Then with a shout of 'Oh, my major aunt,' the greeting he always has given, Hugh Grantland since the army officer resided here from the kindergarten in North Carolina, he dashed across the living room."

Philip Veritren Appears

"Shut the door, Katie," I said, and when she had obeyed me, I sat her here to my room on a rumpled-up cot, turning to Katherine as soon as she had left.

"Now laugh and get it out of your system," I said, grimly.

"Now, may I be free from you?" she returned merrily. "I'm simply lost in admiration of your looks and your get-up. And every of your opportunity."

"You may have the last and welcome," I said, graciously.

"Likely chance!" she scoffed. "But I'll do you one favor. I'll go in and pass the time of day with the major, and see that Junior is safely out of the room and beyond the temptation of pleading to go with you when you start."

She was as good as her word, for when, after planting Katie with difficulty, I had finished my breakfast and with a last look in the mirror had satisfied myself that my new afternoon gown and hat were unusually becoming, I found Hugh alone in the living room standing near the door leading to the room and beyond the temptation of pleading to go with you when you start."

When America was young, the wise pioneer women learned to gather, in woods and fields, the remedies the Indians used. From the rafters of colonial houses hung great bunches of dried roots and herbs. From these, in times of sickness, the busy mother brewed remedies for her family.

From roots and herbs, Lydia E. Pinkham, a descendant of these sturdy pioneers, made her Vegetable Compound. For more than half a century this dependable medicine has been taken by women with very satisfactory results.

If it has helped other women, why shouldn't it help yours? Ask.

His eyes told me that my misstep had not led to me, but his words were all of Junior as he went down the stairs to the street where the swarms of children waited.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

Fletcher's CASTORIA

The Young Mother.

The ills of infants and children should be so well known to the youngest of mothers that a reminder or a repetition of the symptoms of illness seems unnecessary, yet there are some mothers who overlook a feverish condition, a little colic, or a disposition to be irritable. If not corrected they may lead to serious sickness. And to correct them, to bring Baby back to his happy self, is so easy by the use of Castoria—a medicine prepared just for infants and children. It will regulate the bowels (not force them), aid digestion and so bring quiet and rest.

Fletcher's Castoria has been doing this for over 30 years; regulating the stomach and bowels of infants and children. It has replaced the nauseating Castor Oil, so-called Soothing Syrup, poisonous Paregoric and other vicious concoctions in the homes of true and honest mothers—mothers who love their children.

Those mothers who give their babies fools and medicines especially prepared for infants and children.

To avoid imitations always look for the signature of J. C. Fletcher. Proven directions on each package. Physicians everywhere recommend it.

Gossip and Guesses in the

WHO holds the national football championship this morning? While Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, was in Chicago Saturday watching the Army and Navy battle to a 21-21 tie, his team, which many followers of football had acclaimed as the super team of the 1926 season, was meeting a "let up" at Pittsburgh. But the "let up" Carnegie Tech refused to be impressed with the record that the Irish team had piled up, and after the game was over, Notre Dame was nursing its first defeat of the season—19 to 0.

This defeat will detract from the game which Notre Dame is to play on Saturday with the University of Southern California. This game has been looked on all season as the most important intercollegiate game of the year. Much of its championship flavor, however, has been extracted by Carnegie Tech's victory Saturday. Instead of a game which should have been the best of the season, it will be just one of those things—a game between two teams which have each been defeated by other schools earlier in the season.

AND the Army-Navy game also provided its share of surprises. It proved that the teams were as evenly matched as the football critics have maintained all season. To us, the surprise does not lie in the fact that the score was a tie, but in the size of that score. A 10-10 tie would have been closer to what the dope would indicate.

SCORE one for J. Humbert Fugazy in his promoter war with Tex Rickard. Humbert has signed a lease with the National Exhibition Co. (the New York Giants) giving him exclusive use of the Polo Grounds for boxing matches next season. Last season Fugazy was forced to find a place to put on his matches after all other details of his bouts were arranged. He had no fixed place in which to stage his battles. Now, however, he is assured of an arena which seat about 25,000 at a field. The seating arrangement in the baseball stands at the famous park are ideal for boxing bouts, as the ring can be pitched in such a position that every seat used for baseball can be used as well for fights.

It was at his start as a promoter. It was there that he staged the Italian football fund bouts in the summer of 1925. It was this series of bouts and the masterful way in which they were handled that brought Fugazy to the fore as a promoter of sporting events.

Another point in favor of the man recognized as Rickard's leading rival in the recent decision of the New York Athletic commission holding Paul Berlenbach and Jack Shuckey to continue made with Fugazy, and a third point in favor of Fugazy for any other promoter until their contracts have expired or they have obtained a release from Fugazy.

WALTER ECKERSALL, himself picked three times as All-American quarterback, is now writing sports on a Chicago paper, and is picking "all" teams of his own. On his All-Western Conference team Walter has shown the good judgment to place three members of this year's Ohio State team. The three so honored are Heacock, left tackle; Hess, right guard; and Karow, right halfback. For quarterback and captain of his mythical eleven he picks Henry Friedmann, captain of this year's Michigan team.

WRESTLING promoters have about come to an agreement that there should be a class between the light heavyweight and the heavyweight. A number of these promoters have agreed to co-operate and present a champion of the belt to the best wrestler between 190 and 205 pounds. The first match in this new class, to be known as the junior heavyweight, will be held in Columbus Wednesday night, when George Walker, who holds the heavyweight championship of Canada, meets Jack Sherry, light promoter of Turner Burns, who brought out, among others, Frank Gede and the present king of the welterweights, Jack Reynolds. These two fellows weigh about 200 pounds even. We saw them in a 20-minute limit bout a couple of weeks ago and are going to be there to see them go to a finish.

A TAX on professional baseball, football, track and field meets is proposed in Chicago. The tax suggested calls for three cents of the gross receipts and would enrich the city to the extent of $100,000 annually.

ALL athletes of distinction in Germany are honored by a new order, the insignia of which is "The Golden Ribbon." Among the first to be honored in German sport for the year 1926 to be crowned with laurel for their achievements are Dr. Otto Pölzer, Otto Schmidt and Ernst Vierkotter. Pölzer's present supremacy in the German athletic world is unquestioned through his victory over Dr. Hans Nurni.

Only Three Undefeated Teams of First Rank

Notre Dame, Brown, Navy
Do Flop At Grand Finale,
Get Championship HookGame Between Alabama and Stanford as Pasadena Will Tend To Settle National Championship Honors, While
Lafayette Will Just Have To Be Content

BY DAVID J. WALSH

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Destiny pulled its invisible strings between the rise of one sun on Thursday and the setting of another on Saturday and the football teams of Notre Dame, Brown and the Navy, puppets all, danced obediently into the wings and the shadows beyond where fame is not.

Headliners almost to the last, their act provided something of a "flop" at the grand finale.

In consequence, a saddened and distraught tournament of roses committee at Pasadena, Cal., probably will break right down and laugh.

There were three undefeated college football teams of the first rank surviving the regular season's end today, and through some respectable record, the committee has lined up only two of them, Stanford and Alabama, for the New Year's game on the coast. That game, therefore, will have a far greater bearing on the national situation in football than ever before. In fact, it will establish the winner as more deserving of national recognition than any other contender.

It is supposed that there is only one Lafayette which finished its season undefeated more than a week ago and, at least, has a shouting confession in all arguments. However, the team that wins at Pasadena can whisk its great battle and all will have with great ease and facility for it will be the undisputed champion of two great sections, the South and far West, while Lafayette, at best, can claim nothing better than the purple shadow of the Alleghenies.

And, Michigan Lost

As for the Middle West, Notre Dame's disturbing defeat by Carnegie Tech on Saturday left that section without an accredited national contender for the first time in some years. Michigan probably is a good as the next and better than most, but the Wolverine merely is a champion of the Big Ten and besides it lost to the Navy.

The latter's 21 to 21 tie with the Army on Saturday must be regarded as an act of self-elimination and the same thing applies to Brown's 10 to 10 tie with Colgate.

The fallacy of comparative scores and records of teams that meet on common ground is well and favorably shown among our most intelligent football fans. Yet how many one-rate football teams except by victories, defeats and ties? The writer can not raise himself to three ringing cheers for the Navy's claims when that team plays a tie with the Army, which Carnegie Tech, which lost to New York University, which was beaten by Nebraska, which in turn lost to Missouri, which lost to Oklahoma, which lost to Kansas, which lost to nearly everybody and so on ad infinitum.

New England Out

In the same way, Brown's tie with Colgate on Thanksgiving Day clearly and his other record-breaking achievements on the underpath. Schmidt is Germany's most popular jockey. Vierzottler is named because of his having been the first German to swim the English channel.

ERNE NEVENS, who was a star with Ireland Stanford University, and is now as great a star in pro football, should know where he speaks when he says that the offense is made to look inferior, but I doubt if college teams could perfect a much more intensified attack than do the professionals.

ELKHART High school, Elkhart, Ind., claims this year's honors for the largest football play of the state. The player is John "Tiny" Moore, 20, and captain of the team.

"Tiny" is six feet two inches tall, and when "up to normal," as he puts it, makes the scales groan at 260 pounds. Just now the youth is underweight and only makes 235.

Moore has difficulty in getting a football uniform to fit him, as he wears size 48 pants. Then after he gets them he has more trouble keeping them as he wears out two or three pairs each season.

MICHIGAN must have a "soft spot" for Ohio. Besides inviting Ohio State to dedicate the new stadium next year, Ohio Wesleyan has been scheduled for the first game in Michigan's new bowl on Oct. 1.

COLUMBUS FOUNTAIN DRUGS

This fast outfit was runner up in the Ohio State Journal tournament. It will meet the Isaly Dairy team, winner of the tournament, at the Star Auditorium Wednesday night.

Fountain Drugs to Battle
Dairymen Here WednesdayColumbus Cagers, Defeated by Dairies in Final Game of Central Ohio Semi-Pro Tourney Last Year, Out for Revenge;
Midways To Play Martel Lion Tamers

Early Dairies will meet the first basketball team to visit Marion this season, Wednesday night, when they stack up against the fast-stepping Fountain Drugs from Columbus on the Star Auditorium court. The Midways will play the Martel Lion Tamers in the preliminary contest.

The Fountain Drugs were runners-up in the Central Ohio semi-pro basketball tourney in Columbus last year, being defeated in the final game by the Isaly crew.

Both teams will start the battle Wednesday night with the same players that met in the final and deciding contest of the tourney last year. The Fountain Drugs are out for revenge while the Isaly outfit is ready to defend its title.

The Dairymen claim one of the greatest lineups in Central Ohio with Leonard Keates, Henry and Henry Hall from Ohio State, Seashorn formerly starred with Wilmington, and Callahan, Kosman and Myers played on the South High aggregation of Columbus. Myers is considered as the greatest center out, will meet the Martel Lion Tamers in the preliminary game Wednesday.

The Midways have yet to taste defeat this season while the Martel outfit holds the same record.

KNACHEL MAKES
ALL-STAR TEAMLands End Position on
All-Star Wesleyan
Outfit

Eddie Knachel of this city, for two years the star end on the Ohio Wesleyan football team, graduating from that university last year, has been chosen on the all-time, all-star Ohio Wesleyan grid team, recently announced by David William Moore in the college magazine.

The team was picked after Moore had corresponded with former coaches and players of Ohio Wesleyan and given the names of players as far back as 1903.

Branch Ricker, vice president and business manager of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, is one of the callbacks on the all-star team, having played in that capacity in 1904, 1905, 1907, fullback, is the oldest man on the team. The team is as follows:

Little, 1912, and Knachel, 1925, ends; Hutchinson, 1908, and Smith, 1923, tackles; Keller, 1903, and Amelin, 1925, guards; Ballinger, 1923, center; Skel 1903, quarter; Ricker, 1904, and Rike, 1908, halfbacks; and Welch, 1897, fullback.

New suits are ones of the Howitzer boys if they perform their duties and do their best against opponents in the next game. Howitzer Company will probably book games out of town in the near future.

Company D has not yet seen action on the army drill field this season but all set for the big battle Thursday.

In addition to the games mentioned, several teams are holding practice sessions at the armory and may schedule games there during the season.

EARL HANOVER PICKED FOR STATE CLASS TEAM

Earl Hanover, W. Church St., one of the best track men ever turned out at Harding High School, was one of the seven Freshmen at Ohio State University to be awarded class jerseys following several meets at the University last week.

Hanover, who was picked from a class of nearly 80 men to represent the first year class at the university, has been placing in premium positions in all of the tryouts since the first of the term.

The local youth has taken part and this winter several distance races staged in this city.

MISSSES RYAN AND SEARS ON HIKE

Boston, Nov. 20.—Two of the foremost women athletes of America, Miss Eleanor Sears and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, were walking neck-and-neck this forenoon in a grueling hike from Providence to Boston.

At Norwood, 13 miles from the finish, the pair were far ahead of Miss Sears' previous time for the city to city hike, made last year in 10 hours and 27 minutes.

Going through Norwood, Miss Ryan was setting the pace.

A real wage is said to hang on the hike, resulting from the defeat of the back bay woman, defeated on the tennis court at the hands of Miss Ryan.

Miss Ryan is of the opinion that she will win the hike, but she is not sure of every round in the future.

Pres. E. F. Hawkins of the league has announced.

The Huber five will be seen in action for the first time tonight, being a new organization and a new member in the Industrial League. A newly organized Fairfield Engineering team will also appear. Other quintets will be composed of many old stars who flashed into the limelight last year during the Industrial season.

Battles of the Industrial loop this year are expected to furnish cage fans with plenty of excitement and give them a real exhibition of basketball in the meantime. Many of the leading players of the city have landed positions on various teams in the league.

King of Ohio Wesleyan will referee the games.

GENE FUGAZY TODAY WITH TEX, FUGAZY AND GIBSON

New York, Nov. 20.—Gene Tunney will be a busy man, today.

Willing to listen to any and all bids for his services as heavyweight champion, the ex-champion was scheduled to hold successive conferences with Tex Rickard and Humbert J. Fugazy, rival promoters, and a third with his manager, Billy Gibson.

Gibson's meeting with Tunney was inspired by the manager's desire to learn his status, there having been reports that the pair had reached the parting of the ways. Tunney, however, has denied this through his traveling representative, Ray Campbell.

Intercity Bowling League
Planned By Eight Cities In Northern and Central Ohio

Marion Will Be Represented in New Loop by All-Stars; Others Included in League Are Mansfield, Gallon, Tiffin, Fremont, Bucyrus, Delaware, Sandusky

A bowling league, composed of teams from cities of northern and central Ohio, may be organized within the next two days with Marion being represented by the All-Stars, it was announced today.

The league is to consist of eight teams and representatives of these teams will meet at Mansfield Tuesday night, to discuss plans for the establishment of the new bowling loop. Kopp and McKill of the All-Stars will represent Marion at the meeting.

Cities to be represented in the league, according to present plans, are Marion, Mansfield, Gallon, Tiffin, Fremont, Bucyrus, Delaware and Sandusky.

Should plans for the new group materialize as expected, some of the finest bowling outfits in northern and central Ohio will compete during the winter months, and bowling fans of this area will be furnished with plenty of excitement. It will be the first league of this kind in this section of Ohio in years.

The Marion All-Stars, who will represent this city in case the association is formed, consist of Kopp, McKill, Steve Thompson, Williams, Ward, Steinmetz and Hane, eight of the best bowlers in Marion. It was a team composed of five of these men that a week ago broke all records on the Delaware alleys.

Last night the All-Stars entered the individual sweepstakes, local contests on the Delaware alleys. The Marion All-Stars, who will represent this city in case the association is formed, consist of Kopp, McKill, Steve Thompson, Williams, Ward, Steinmetz and Hane, eight of the best bowlers in Marion. It was a team composed of five of these men that a week ago broke all records on the Delaware alleys.

The sweepstakes were held Saturday and Sunday with members of teams from Central Ohio teams competing. A high score of 875 took the first honors.

Warwick led the local men in the tourney, bowling 774 in the four contests. Steinmetz followed with 767 and Schuler was next with 765. Dugan was fourth among the locals with 755 and McKill scored 750. Hane rolled 392. Williams was credited with 354 pins, and Kopp bowled 337 in the four games.

The All-Stars will play the Delaware City crew on the Y. M. C. A. alleys here Friday night.

TIGER FLOWERS
TO MEET WALKER
ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Chicago, Nov. 20.—With the Army-Navy football game out of the way, sporting interest today centered on the impending world's championship fight between Tiger Flowers, middleweight title holder, and Mickey Walker, former welterweight champion, who now believes he is capable of annexing the middleweight crown.

Flowers and Walker will clash in a 10-round decision bout at the Coliseum here Friday night. They entered the bona stretch of their training preparations today in practically top form.

Each fighter, with an eye on the impending fray, has been actively engaged in ring work lately. On the same night recently, Walker was beaten by Jack Madson, at Boston, while Flowers was facing Sailor Eddie Hoffman, of the Pacific coast, in a local ring. These victories have perked interest in Friday night's affair.

Plenty of Backers

Both champion and challenger have a host of friends who can specify a half dozen reasons why their respective candidates will win. Betting, however, is a shade partial to the challenger.

The pre-fight day Walker—not the Walker who lost the welterweight crown to Pete Latzo—is viewed as the most formidable challenger matched with Tiger since the Georgia dewan won his title. Mickey, who hits hard with either hand, is expected to tear down reasons why their respective candidates will win. Betting, however, is a shade partial to the challenger.

Flowers, according to his followers, may not punch as hard as Walker, but is fast enough and clever enough to stave off Mickey's assault while the champion piles up sufficient points to retain his title.
